Ep-aking of Charity:

From Zion's mount, tranquil and at peace she surveys the changing scenes of this busy would, with no emotions but of pity and love, would, with no emotions but of pity and love.

Dr. R.-M. Kelly, world, with no emotions but of pity and love. Securely fixed on safety's rock, she beholds, unmoved, the swelling storms of prejudice and passion, like harmless founders breaking at her feet. Charity stands upon faith; on Dr. Lynch, hope she reclines her head; her eyes are raised in smiling confidence to heaven; whilst ed in smiling confidence to heaven; whilst her hands are diligently employed in deeds of kindness and love to mankind.

-From the Cambridge Chronicle. MOST HORRIBLE.

On Tucsday morning last, between nine On Tucsday morning last, between nine and eleven o'clock, a Mrs. Insley, in the absence of her husband, was murdered at her residence, near Vienna in this county. At the time of this foul and harrible transaction, the time of this foul and harrible transaction, be John Quynn, (2) the time of this foul and horrible transaction, the time of this foul and horrible transaction, the time of this foul and horrible transaction, the time of the horrible transaction, be sides the unfortunate lady and her infant child a white man and black lad, a negro man, worms and nurse.—The first two were at work in the wood, some distance off—the latter in the wood, some distance off—the latter were near or about the house. Upon passing or perhaps entering the door of which, one of these heard an unusual noise, and turning to these heard an unusual noise, and turning to ascertain whence it proceeded, saw Mrs. I ascertain whence it proceeded, saw Mrs. I have speedly communicated to the rest, and she, shockingly lacerated, speechless, win. Steuart, 3 This was speedily communicated to the rest, and sho, shockingly lacerated, speechless, ethausted, dying, and insensible to all but agony, was removed to a chair and placed in thomas S. Thomas, it, where, her deadly contusions and gaping wounds still issuing copious streams of blood, she survived but a short time.

The instrainent used to consummate the diabolical sacrifice of this unhappy victim of an incorrigible passion, was an axe,—with which, horrible to relate, her scull was fractured, her throat cut and one of her arms broken.—
Thus, in cold blond, was she butchered, for

Thus, in cold blood, was she butchered, for the love of filthy lucre; for a desire of money, supposed to have been in her possession, it seems, was the cause which led to the deedy and it must be added, that she upon whom it was perpetrated, was in quite an advanced state of pregnancy.

The negro man and woman alluded to above were immediately apprehended and are now in prison, to await their trial, which will doubtless take piace at the next session of our county court, which is to commence on the first Monday in April. This being the case, we have extleavoured to avoid using such expressions and, to us, irrelevant facts, as might possibly give direction to public opinion, in reference to the guilt or innocence of any one.
